The LOTE Rubric Maker

is finally live! (the link is at the top of the third column).

Another new feature on Languages Online which is worth checking out is the Comprehension Task Maker.

As with all resources on Languages Online, feedback is welcome.

The German Tierschutzbund

has launched two special websites aimed at children and adolescents.

The websites hope to educate children on animal welfare, whilst also encouraging them to get more actively involved.

www.jugendtierschutz.de/ (a portal site) and www.tierschutzkids.de/ (aimed at smaller children)

FARMLAND,

an online educational initiative of the European Commission:

A new online video game released by the European Commission (EC) shows children what animal welfare can mean on a farm.

Interactive and informative, "Farmland" is for children aged between 9 and 12 and aims to help tomorrow's consumers make informed choices about the food they will be buying.

Throughout the game children are encouraged to think about the welfare of animals in the context of food production and consumption.

This is a global concept.
